

WAR DEPARTMENT MAY MAKE PUBLIC PACIFIC DEFENSE

Speaker Cannon Returns Communication to the Secretary.

It Declares Enemy Could Invade Country.

LACK OF MEN AND EQUIPMENT.

Washington, Dec. 15.—A report from the war department showing how the country is inadequately protected against invasion from foreign governments was sent to the house as a secret document and after a number of conferences and hurried telephone messages, was returned to the war department on the ground that the house could not receive a secret report.

With 291 members in that body the contents of the report stand a chance of leaking out to the public immediately, in the opinion of those who conferred on the subject when the remote contingency of a secret session of the house is mentioned.

Members of congress who saw the document before its withdrawal say the report of Secretary Dickinson points out that the country is wholly unprepared, that there is a woeful inadequacy of men, guns and ammunition, that the army should be reorganized and that a council of national defense, with the secretary of war at the head, should be created by congress. The report of General Wood, which is marked "confidential," dealt with these matters and gave official admission to matters that are of common knowledge among army and navy experts. The real significance of the document is that it makes official admission of conditions already well known among army and navy officers.

Wood, in testimony before the house military committee, discussed the whole subject of national defense, told where the weak points lay, and laid particular emphasis on the possibility of an outbreak from the orient. He did not give vent to any alarming views, but talked confidentially of the need to take immediate action to guard against any possible trouble from Japan or China.

Representative McClachan, of California, author of the resolution, said: "A foreign country could land 200,000 troops on the Pacific coast in 30 days, and the only intimation of trouble would be their presence. Military authorities say that it would take years to dislodge foreign troops if they ever secured a foothold in the Rocky mountains, and it would cost the United States a billion dollars."

The bill introduced by Representative Hobson, embodies the administration idea of a national council for defense and is the result of his conference with President Taft, Secretary Dickinson and other officers.

The holding up of the report grew out of the opposition of Tammey, of Minnesota, chairman of the appropriations committee. It is said, Tammey is said to have had his attention called to the report some time ago, whereupon he hurried to the white house, called attention of the president in the policy of retrenchment in appropriations and advised him that, figuratively, if the conditions cited in this report were made public the whole retrenchment policy would be interfered with.

After looking into precedents, the speaker concluded there was no argument for the acceptance of the report of confidential communication. It was then returned to Dickinson with a polite letter calling attention to the rules of the house which refuses communications of this kind.

Washington, Dec. 15.—It became known positively to day that the war department's report answering the McClachan resolution revealed that the United States is wholly unprepared for war.

It lacks the right kind of men in the army; needs guns and ammunition; an increase in the number of standing troops is imperative, and it requires increased fortifications.

This is the official reply of General Leonard Wood and Secretary of War Dickinson. In replying to McClachan's question, regarding the preparedness for an invasion of the Pacific coast by Asiatic power, the frank answer is substantially "No."

As a result of Speaker Cannon's returning the report to the war department yesterday, it is expected Dickinson will re-submit the report today with the "confidential" warning removed.

Mr. J. K. Ferguson left this morning for West Tennessee on business.

OSBURN'S SLAYER MUST SERVE HIS 2 YEAR SENTENCE

Lewis Futrell Loses Appeal From Verdict in Circuit Court.

Southern Railway Wins Its Contention.

WHEN WHISKY IS BAGGAGE.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 15.—(Special)—The appellate court today affirmed the verdict of the McCracken circuit court in the murder trial of Lewis Futrell, who was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary for the murder of Horace Osburn.

Futrell has been in the McCracken county jail since July when his second trial was held and a verdict of guilty was returned, and he was given two years in the penitentiary. In his first trial he was given eleven years in the penitentiary, but a new trial was granted.

Young Futrell, with his father, J. S. Futrell and a neighbor, J. D. Petty, were farmers and resided at Model, Tenn. They came to Paducah with a shipment of tobacco, and were staying at the boarding house of Horace Osburn, a street car motorman. On the night of February 25, 1909 Osburn accused the men of drinking and ordered them from the house. While descending the stairs a difficulty ensued and young Futrell shot and killed Osburn. The defense claimed that Osburn attacked the father and Lewis Futrell shot Osburn in defense.

Between his first and second trials Futrell was out on bond but altogether he has been in the county jail over a year. He has made a model prisoner, and did not escape from the county jail when the wholesale jail delivery was effected in 1909.

The higher court then reversed the lower court and the manufacturing company refused to pay the compromise. Suit for the $6,500 was then brought, the lower court rendering a judgment for Miss Pitts which the court of appeals has sustained.

RED CROSS SEALS REACH 500 TODAY

FIRST DAYS' SALES ARE ENCOURAGING—SCHOOLS TAKE LARGE NUMBER.

Five hundred Red Cross Christmas seals were sold today at the station in the lobby of the postoffice. It is the first day that the station has been open, but the public will have an opportunity to purchase the seals at the postoffice every day now until Christmas. Today Miss Frances Gould, assisted by Misses Cherie Morton and Alice Compton was in charge of the station.

The sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals among the pupils of the schools is surprising to the school officials as well as the committee having in charge the sale. The purchase of the stamps is voluntary upon the part of the children, as the teachers have instructions not to urge the sale of the seals. The purpose of the sale of the stamps is made known, and the pupils have been eager to assist in the fight against tuberculosis.

The Jefferson school has the honor for the sale, as 1,100 stamps have been purchased by the pupils of that school, and today an additional 200 stamps were secured, making the allotment for that school, 1,300. The stamps have been distributed among the schools as follows: High school, 1,100; Jefferson, 1,300; Franklin, 300; Lee, 200; Longfellow, 200; McKinley, 200; Whittier, 100; Lincoln, colored, 800; Garfield, colored, 300.

One girl at the Jefferson school made a single purchase of 500 stamps, which is the largest purchase reported in the schools.

THREE WARRANTS FOR CHILD LABOR LAW VIOLATIONS

State Factory Inspector Pat Filburn is Taking Examples.

He Also Advises Better Sanitary Condition.

WILL RETURN HERE NEXT WEEK

Warrants were sworn out today in police court against three companies for the alleged violation of the state child labor law, by Pat Filburn, state labor inspector. The companies are alleged to have worked children between the ages of 14 and 16 years without the proper permits. One is a bottling concern and the other two factories.

"It was necessary for me to act," said Mr. Filburn, "for the violations of the child labor law in Paducah are open. Most of the companies plead ignorance of the law, but that is not an excuse, and I feel that some examples must be made. What children under age that I have found working I have sent home and have given the employers copies of the law in order that they may not make a second mistake. Some of the companies claim that the children said they were over 16 years old, but the law requires that an oath shall be made by the parents to the effect that the child is over 16 years old."

Mr. Filburn will spend tomorrow in the city investigating factories, and he intends to make a thorough canvass of the city. "It is necessary for me to be in Louisville Saturday to attend court," said Mr. Filburn, "but I will return to Paducah next week. I am going to see that the law is obeyed in Paducah, if I have to neglect the remainder of the state."

Mr. Filburn is also investigating the sanitary conditions of the factories in which men, women and children are employed. He has made a number of suggestions for improvements of sanitary conditions in Paducah factories, and says that some prosecutions probably will be made unless owners obey promises.

A bill in equity against one section of the combination will be filed in some United States court east of the Mississippi.

Then will begin what the department of justice considers the mammoth trust busting suit of its history and one which involves a test of the Sherman law never brought before. The government's case will depend largely on the interpretation of the patent laws.

A government prosecutor declares that when the action is instituted it will eclipse the Standard Oil case in magnitude and public importance, and a conservative estimate is that it will cost the government $1,000,000 to prosecute to the end. The department of justice has abandoned the idea of attacking the combination as a whole and intends to fight the trust in sections.

Incandescent lights are said to be controlled by one group, copper wire another, street car motors by another, transforming machinery by still another, and so on down the list of electrical appliances.

The government will file its suit against one section and follow by actions against others as fast as the investigations are completed.

MOVE TOWARD GENERAL PEACE

IS BUILDING OF PANAMA CANAL SAYS ROOSEVELT.

Praises Col. Goethals and Declares Pinchot and Garfield Deserve Great Credit.

HE LAUDS CARNEGIE'S PLAN

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 15.—In speaking of "applied ethics" in a lecture in the theater here, Theodore Roosevelt touched on the building of the Panama Canal as progress in conservation, and a movement toward general peace.

Just before going on the platform tonight Roosevelt learned of the Carnegie peace foundation. He hailed the announcement with delight and was especially pleased with the selection of Senator Root as permanent president.

Toward the end of the lecture Roosevelt made special reference to the gift as providing a means of making real progress in bringing about the results which Carnegie desired to achieve. Carnegie is entitled to the hearty good will, he said, of all patrons of all countries. By the relation of moral theories of government put into practice or what he termed "applied morality," he sought to illustrate by the Panama canal, under the direction of Col. Goethals, who, he said, deserved most of the praise for the canal work, conservation as exemplified by the labors of Garfield and Pinchot, and the peace movement as furthered by John Hay, Elihu Root, the favored the fortification of the canal and a larger navy, as the best guarantee of peace.

"It is the easiest thing in the world to sketch out a system of government; and it is one of the most difficult things in the world to make a government according to the sketch. I wish to give concrete illustrations."

He then spoke on the theory worked out. He said it was owing to the ability of Col. Goethals, as well as to many others that we can accomplish one of the greatest business and engineering feats of all ages.

He used the conservation of natural resources as another illustration. Roosevelt said it is not difficult to make speeches on that subject, or to hold conventions and applaud the declarations in favor of conservation.

But men in working out the doctrine faced all kinds of selfish interests, and were exposed to greater danger of being honestly misunderstood by honest men.

"Those who actually do the work of conservation," he said, "have therefore, peculiar positions. While I was president there were no two men to whom I felt I owed more, from a standpoint of public service, than Garfield and Pinchot for the work they did in connection with conservation. Their work was done not only with zeal, but with utmost efficiency."

Speaking of peace he said: "What has been accomplished by friendly treaty during President Taft's administration represents a mass of substantial achievement, or triumph over the formidable obstacles."

Would it not be a good idea to see after your city taxes before the rush comes? Then you might overlook the matter and have to pay the penalty.

Louisville, Dec. 15.—The receipts of hogs were 1,709 head, making a total of 6,258 for the three days this week. The buyers had the situation under complete control, and, following a weak close, they forced prices down 35c on all grades; selected hogs of all weights selling at $7.50; roughs out at $6.90 down. The pens were fairly well cleared, but the close was weak. There seems to be an unsettled undertone to the trade.

CATTLE.

Receipts 140 head; for the three days 2,682. The buying crowd was pretty much of a local proposition, and the demand in many avenues very indifferent; the market slow and some kinds a shade lower. Choice light butcher cattle were in fair demand at barely steady prices; the medium and common kinds were dull; druggies and some lower; heavy butcher steers also dull to shade lower. Good inquiry for the best feeders, stockers and stoppers; common trashy stockers and rough feeders slow sale. Bulls steady; canners and cutters dull and lower. Milch cows slow sale. No heavy shipping cattle here; feeling weak.

Receipts, 94; for the three days, 319. The market ruled quiet, about steady; the best, 7 1/2 @ 8c; medium, 6 1/2 @ 7 1/2c; common, 2 1/2 @ 5 1/2c.

THE CITY AND THE SCHOOLS.

The report of the city treasurer that there will be $10,000 for island creek bridge and $3,000 for the public schools with a little surplus besides, at the end of the year, proves the accuracy of the estimate made by Mayor Smith, the members of the council finance committee and

City Auditor Kirkland at the beginning of the fiscal year. Mayor Smith proposed that a sinking fund of $10,- 000 for the bridge be included in the budget, and it was agreed by the committee of the whole of the general council that, if any surplus remained at the end of the year, $3,000 of it should be presented to the city schools. The reason for this last promise was the fact that the charter limitations prevented the city allowing the schools more than a 35 cent levy, when the actual demands of the schools were greater than could be realized on that levy. The same taxpayers, who support the city, support the schools and are forced to pay interest when the schools borrow money.

Consequently, it seemed just to the members of the general council, that if they got through the year with any balance, part of that should go toward the support of the schools, as the best means of giving the taxpayers their money's worth out of the taxes. While the school board has succeeded in paying off the floating debts of the schools, and has kept up the necessary repairs to the property, the physical property of the schools needs extensive improvement, and more teachers are required, besides better pay for the more experienced members of the staff. That $3,000 can be well spent on the schools, and a much larger appropriation should be made for the schools under the new assessment in 1911.

QUACKERY OF SOCIALISM.

We are in receipt of communications from two readers, whose mental condition we should diagnose as Socialistic in the tertiary stage. The one invites our attention to the Socialist platform, which he encloses, and requests us to compare with the Democratic and Republican platforms and answer him truly, which in our opinion is the most Christ-like in principles. We have done as he directed, but confess ourselves utterly unable to detect anything

Christ-like in any of them; but assuming that Christ was essentially honest, we are constrained to admit that we find the Socialist platform for that reason the least Christ-like of the three.

It consists of a conglomerate mass of cheap bids for the favor of every individual or class, who may by any conceivable combination of circumstances become or be made dissatisfied with his lot in comparison with that of others. Like the shrewd nostrum add, which insidiously suggests the malady and then triumphantly proclaims the remedy, the Socialist first must convince himself and others that conditions as applied to the particular one addressed are terrible and growing worse, and afterwards, still with the prestige of the successful diagnostician upon him, declare he has the sovereign remedy for all our woes. When he has incidentally hit upon some advanced Democratic idea, like the popular primary, initiative and referendum and it is also adopted by other parties, he uses the fact as a "testimonial" to the accuracy of all his political and moral precepts; but his nostrum, like many another, to while it may contain a specific for certain superficial forms of political rash, has hidden in its ingredients, fatal to the vital organism of society as it exists today, and we prefer a physician of larger experience in the general practice to prescribe for us.

Just one plank in the platform will serve to illustrate: It advocates making workers beneficiaries of the government, and would place in the hands of labor unions funds for that purpose. Here is one of the cheap tricks by which the party hoped to merge into the federation of labor.

The result of such an idea enacted into law, would be a crop of fear-and wonderfully constituted labor unions of all sizes, shapes and dimensions for the purpose of handling and dispensing government funds. Should the Socialists then undertake to limit and define the kind of labor union, which could administer the fund, they would involve us in class legislation that would necessitate a complete abrogation of the constitution and bill of rights, nullify the declaration of independence and destroy the very foundation of this government:—

equal rights.

Now, there is a principle, which the Socialists seem to have misunderstood. Equal rights as they understand it would prevent one man by reason of superior powers or application succeeding beyond another. For instance: John D. Rockefeller, started penniless, as a clerk in a grocery store at about $2 a week. He has become the richest man in the world. Every other man had the same right and opportunity to acquire riches, just like Rockefeller. Rockefeller had no advantage over his fellows, excepting brains, good habits, industry and thrift. The same opportunity in a larger degree obtains today. There is no class distinction, for instance, between the section hand today and the man, who has been mentioned as possible successor to President Harlan of the Illinois Central. He started as a section hand, and has neither been knighted nor otherwise altered in his relations to the state.

But the Socialistic idea of equal rights is a restraining influence that will prevent a man acquiring, as these men acquired, and as others may acquire in like degree. They would stop dishonesty and immorality by enacting laws, prohibiting dishonesty and abolishing immorality. Our laws do not prevent dishonesty, and we may be mistaken in our ideas of morality. Thus, you may wish to buy a horse for a certain purpose and so explain to a dealer, who says he has the very horse you require. You may examine the horse and buy it for that purpose, though the dealer knows it possesses defects which render it utterly useless to you. Now, according to all right morals, the dealer is a liar and a thief for selling you the horse, but you have no recourse at law; because you bought at your own risk.

We may be mistaken in our distinction between bastard and legiti-mate children, and when the Socialist substitutes the state for the home, bastard children may come near having a fair chance in the world with those of legitimate birth.

Indeed, had we the bar sinister upon our escutcheon, ushinka, we would be Socialists; but we apprehend that under such conditions illegitimacy would become fashionable, and government pensions to the wise child succeed the modern law of descent of property.

Our second communication flouts the idea of Socialism having anything to do with religion and morals and accuses us of not knowing what "capital" is; because, forsooth, we said "we cannot distinguish between the capitalist who has ten cents and the capitalist who has ten million dollars," which indeed, we cannot;

nor are we any more able, after that our correspondent explains:

"Capital may be money, it may be buildings, machinery or raw materials; but none of them become capital except under certain conditions.

When these things are used to exploit labor, then only do they become capital. One may have considerable more than ten cents invested in a home, a library, or an auto, yet none of these are capital. Capital is anything which is used to take his product from the laborer without giving a full equivalent.

"Socialism proposes the collective ownership of capital for the benefit of all. It is then obvious that Socialism will not disturb any private property which is privately used, but only that private property which is publicly used, and absolutely necessary to our existence and happiness;

such as the land, mills, mines, etc."

This is all very lovely and lucid until we come to enact laws that will automatically protect the ten cents or the ten million dollars, as the case may be, in the hands of the possessor as long as it remains "private property," and confiscate it the moment it crosses the dead line into the realm of "capital."

If the government owns the land and controls the industrial and commercial intercourse of the people, it must necessarily own the homes in which people live, and become a great paternal landlord, determining for us the amount we shall spend, the food we shall eat, the sanitary conditions under which we shall live, our educational facilities, the people with whom we shall associate, the neighborhood in which we shall dwell, the church we shall attend, and every conceivable moral standard of living. It would not do to have religious, social and political differences under a Socialistic state; for, remember, we are not to change the color of our skins or to divest ourselves of the human nature we all inherit—even the Socialist—from the first parents. That is why we said and reiterate that a Socialistic state presupposes an absolute revolution of morals, government and religion, and the establishment of a new order, in which the state shall supersede the home as a unit, and collectivism supersede individuality.

So, when we say that Socialism is in contravention of every principle of government, religion and morality, which we hold as true, we mean simply that the Socialist is bound to intend and advocate every natural and inevitable consequence of the theories he proposes and every step necessary to put his theory into practice; and when we say that the establishment of the Socialistic state is our employer, with power to fix our wages; our landlord, with power to dictate the conditions under which we shall live; the paternal authority to fix the status of every citizen in it, will mean that the state is substituted for the home, the church and the parent, that bastard children will be placed upon a social plane with legitimate offspring and the destruction of all our cherished institutions and the social code, which distinguish man in his living from the brute of the field; we intend to convey the idea that these are the necessary and inevitable accompaniments of Socialism. How much better would man be than a dog under the Socialistic state? How long would that Socialistic state last before some ambitious scion of the bar sinister would seize the state, or anarchy crumble our slowly built civilization to bestial savagery?

Our second correspondent says:

"Socialism is a purely economic and political science and does not concern itself with religion." Now, if our correspondent were a student of history and an observer of his times, he would find that we cannot divorce co-related things. Economics, politics and religion, viewed in the larger aspect, are vastly concerned with another. Our social, moral, economic and political status are developments of our religion, one or the other being more prominently emphasized from time to time, but all progressing intimately together.

Just now, economics and politics are to the fore, but they do not lose their relative values and importance for that reason; and it is because the Socialist undertakes to treat of economics and politics in the larger aspect, disregarding religion and morals, that we compare him to the quack nostrum vender, who would cure a superficial rash with a specific that contains ingredients destructive of the social organism. The Socialist is a crass materialist, and we assert without fear of contradiction, that before a man can become a deep dyed-in-the-wool Socialist he must first lose his grip on religion and those higher values, which belief in a future existence give a man.

Yet, necessity compels him to meet religion as an issue; so our second correspondent, who asserted that

"Socialism is economic" and has nothing to do with religion, declares capitalism has "bought the modern church and sealed its lips with gold", and that Christ "denounced the rich and priests." He did no such thing. He denounced the love of material things, above the values of eternal life and covetousness; and if there exists a cult that places material things before the "treasures of heaven" it is the cult of Socialism, if ever covetousness was the cornerstone of a propaganda, it is the support and prop of Socialism.

Christ refused to recognize class distinctions; a Socialist cannot speak

'two breaths or write a paragraph without mentioning class. Christ's doctrines were predicated on love and long suffering; and Socialism is the Hostess and Honoree Popular Paducah Visitors.

Today Miss Dru Helen Crook, 201 N. Royal street, entertained with an elegant and elaborate "bridal luncheon" in honor of Miss Rose Mercer, whose marriage tomorrow evening to Mr. Jesse Manning Armstrong, of Chicago, is an absorbing event of interest just now in Jackson society. The parlor, hall and library were a look of Christmas welcome with their decorations of holly, and the bright open fires which gave out such a genial warmth that one forgot that it was winter outside. In the dining room everything spoke of the bride. From the central chandelier to the polished mahogany table beneath it, a chateleine of lilacs of the valley and narrow white ribbon fell from the soft awnings fern which covered the chandelier to a lovely bridal bouquet which formed the central ornament of the table. This bouquet which was made of bride roses, and veiled in illusion, rested on a Cluny centerpiece, which with Cluny dollies were the only covering used for the table and the effect was very fine. Covers were laid for twelve and each place card bore a wedding bell done in sepi, the one laid for the bride being decorated with bride roses. Crystal candlesticks with green shades covered with silver filigree, completed the decorations of the table while ferns and other pot plants added an air of tropical beauty to the apartment.—Jackson Daily Sun, Dec. 13.

William Grother, pastor of the German Lutheran church performed the ceremony.

The house was prettily decorated with Christmas greens and plants. There were no attendants. Miss Clara Hever, a sister of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride looked most attractive in a dainty white lingerie frock. She carried bride roses.
Immediately after the ceremony a delightful wedding dinner was served.
The couple left this afternoon for Brimleyburg, the former home of Mr. Burdell to visit relatives. The bride's going-away costume was a nuptial silk poplin with hat and gloves to harmonize. They will be at home at 502 South Third street, Paducah, on their return.

SEES CRISIS

COLLEGE PRESIDENT SAYS NATION IS TOO EXTRAVAGANT.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler Declares America Has Been Placed in a Class With Russia.

New York, Dec. 15.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, analyzing the census figures recently given out at Washington, sees a grave crisis approaching for this country.

"These figures," he says, "take us out of the class of Germany, Great Britain and France and put us in the class with Russia, India and China, nations which we have always looked down on, but whose problems now are ours."

"We must face the problems now of a nation with a huge population which is overcrowding the land available for tillage. The day has gone by when an American can waste over a day what would support a whole family in France. To stop this is called conservation of natural resources, but that is only a part of it. The chief thing is to stop extravagance and waste and begin to live with more intensive application. A man can no longer waste one farm and then go to another state and live on another. We must stop living on our capital and with other adult people, live on our income."

"The pressure on our tillable land will force us eventually to look to foreign nations for the things we cannot supply ourselves."

"Do you realize that Iowa has gone back in the last ten years; that Ohio has stood still and that Illinois, in spite of Chicago's aid, has only gained 14 per cent? The notion that we can live on our capital has got to stop. We have to remember that we have to live on our income. The country must somehow restore the cost of living to a normal plane; it must restore the national happiness and the stability of our government."

WHY BUY ANY RED CROSS SEALS

SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS MAKES STRONG PLEA.

Suppose, in Your Newspaper, You Were to See This Headline in Heavy Type

DEAD — 200,000 AMERICANS!

It would startle you, wouldn't it? Undoubtedly. But the sensational expression of the fact, not the fact itself, would administer the jolt to your faculties. For the fact is constantly before us all, and startles nobody. Two hundred thousand Americans died last year of consumption. One million more are now beset by the same peril. These in turn, are infecting or will infect their hundreds of thousands of others. All needless; all preventable: all a sheer and terrible waste of life.

Possibly you yourself will be one of the hundreds of thousands stricken. There is at least one chance in nine of it. Probably someone near and dear to you will be a victim. There is more than an even chance of that.

What are you going to do about it? What can you do about it?

Buy a Red Cross Seal.

Sounds absurd, doesn't it? In the face of the most potent scourge to the human race, devastation more sweeping than that of war or earthquake, you are invited to do your part with a penny stamp. Well, a stamp isn't much in itself, but it may typify mighty forces. It was a stamp which, typifying tyranny, lashed this country into the struggle for nationality. And now these stamps typify the struggle against the nation's mightiest foe of today. Every one of these little squares means a cent for the campaign. Sixty million of them have already been issued and distributed over the length and breadth of the country. You can get them from your church, from your local anti-tuberculosis organization, from the Y. M. C. A.; or, failing these, write to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, at 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

Fifty million seals means $500,000. What can $500,000 do toward saving a million consumptives? Not much. It is true. But it can do miracles toward preventing the further spread of the disease through eighty million Americans. Every seal means a warning. Every warning may mean a life saved. Education and education only, persistent, unrelenting letting in of the light—that and that alone will wipe out the Great White Plague.

So, whether you buy one of the gay little red and green seals to put on the back of an envelope, or ten thousand wherewith to paper a room, you will be doing your part in the great campaign. A million for tuberculosis is its battle cry, and the red cross flag on the seal, its banner. It is the war of one and all upon a common enemy. Get into the fight, though it be only a cent's worth.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

SHOWS LEMON TREE THAT GREW OUT OF HIS THUMB.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Truth and fiction are running an even race in a story being told in the capital about the fecundity of a man's thumb, in which two lemon seeds accidentally became embedded. Six weeks ago Wilfred Barron, a chef in a Washington cafe, was whittling rings of lemons when he cut his thumb. After the wound healed three sprouts appeared, the length of one of them being estimated at one-half inch. Dr. C. A. Snow removed the peculiar growth but a few days ago more sprouts rose from the finger. It is related, and had to be carved out.

Harron is said to have planted the first seed in a flower pot, christening the little tree resulting therefrom Tom Thumb.

To those who attribute the story to fertility of the digit, Harron exhibits a thumb wound on the one hand and points with the other to the lemon plant on the window sill.

SURVEYORS ARE AT HENDERSON

CORPS OF GOVERNMENT ENGINEERS AT DAM SITE.

They Refuse to Tell Their Plans and Maintain Strict Secrecy Here to Their Visit.

CARRYING OUT INSTRUCTIONS.

Henderson, Ky., Dec. 15.—Something of importance in connection with the Henderson dam is taking place, but it is impossible to ascertain what it is because Uncle Sam has given positive instructions to the surveyors not to talk.

Tuesday evening a government boat towing a living boat of surveying crew No. 2, of Louisville, landed in port and moored just below the wharfbow. There were about 18 of 20 surveyors and several attendants on the boat. The crew was in charge of a Mr. Irvin, who, when approached as to what the surveyors were sent here for, said: "We have instructions not to tell our object in coming here." Irvin refused to give the initials of his name. The boat will leave this morning, and that the surveyors were sent here to make another survey of the site for the dam, there seems to be little doubt. The trip is being conducted with a great deal of secrecy.

Mr. Irvin, in a courteous manner, said that he could not possibly give out information of the reason for the visit in these parts. He refused to say whether it had anything to do with the dam. He refused to state last night, when the boat left this morning whether it would go down or up the river.

The other surveyors and officials were equally reticent and had nothing to say about being here or what the object was in coming.

The visit to the site selected by the surveyors who were here several months ago is significant, and although the crew will give out no information, their purpose is probably to make blue prints and set preparatory stakes for the real work.

Every one in this city is interested in the dam, for it means much to Henderson. For years the Ohio Valley Improvement society has worked with untiring energy to induce congress to take an interest in the lower Ohio river. There are a few members of this society in Henderson, and for years they have been attending the conventions, paying their own way, patiently waiting until the people of the city realized the importance of the dam and woke up to the fact that the dam would be a great commercial factor in the business of the city.

TWO OF THEM JOIN CLASS AT JEFFERSON SCHOOL.

Professor Carnegie Visits Department and Finds It Excellent.

Two boys have enrolled in the sewing class at the Jefferson school, which is being conducted by the ladies of the Jefferson School Improvement league. The classes are held every Wednesday afternoon from 3:45 o'clock until 4:30 o'clock, after the regular school hours, and the attendance of the pupils is voluntarily. There are about 40 girls in class.

The class has received only four lessons, but the pupils have made good progress. They are being taught the stitches, and are now working upon only the simplest work. Mrs. Gus T. Smith, who is president of the league, is a leader in the instruction of the class, and is assisted by other ladies of the league. Mrs. Smith became interested in the work while she was in California, and her knowledge of the domestic science course in the California schools has been beneficial in starting the classes in the Paducah schools. Yesterday afternoon J. A. Carnegie was a visitor at the session of the class, and he was pleased with the work of the class.

Few Candidates are Announced For the Democratic Nominations.

Louisville, Dec. 15.—One of the most surprising things of the impending campaign for nominations for the various state offices on the Democratic ticket is the dearth of candidates at this late date, less than five months from the time the nominations will be made and less than 11 months from the time the election will be held.

This is an unusual state of affairs in a Kentucky election and especially in the Democratic party in Kentucky. Heretofore candidates for Democratic nominations were in the field early, but comparatively few have announced so far. The dearth will not continue long, however, for many candidates will surely announce within the next week or two, now that the time is fast approaching for the Democratic executive committee to fix the time and manner of making nominations.

Strange as it may seem, there is one good office, a state office, for which there is not one announced candidate and few persons have been spoken of in connection with the nomination for this particular office. The position is that of clerk of the court of appeals, one of the best paying positions in connection with the state government.

For lieutenant governor there is only one announced candidate and there is only one aspirant for the nomination for state treasurer. One candidate has announced for secretary of state and informal announcements have been made by two others.

Announced Candidates.

The candidates who have already announced are as follows:
For Governor—James H. McCreary, of Madison county; Ben

Likens, of Ohio county.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—Miss Nannie Catlett, of Caldwell county; Darksdale Hamlett, of Christian county; M. O. Winfrey, of Bell county; W. E. Eubank, of Clark county.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—Tom Wyatt, of Logan county; J. W. Newman, of Woodford county; B. F. Hill, of Henry county.
For United States Senator—Ollie M. James, of Crittenden county; T. H. Paynter, of Greenup county; D. G. Park, of McCracken county.

For Railroad Commissioner—First district—Lawrence B. Finn, of Simpson county; Second district—Elliott Beard, of Shelby county; Third district.

At the Star.

The change of bill at the Star theater this afternoon will be somewhat of an innovation, in view of the fact of bringing Paducah such a renowned artist as George Adams, one of the greatest German musical comedy actors on the stage today. Many will wonder how he can afford to play at a 10c vaudeville show, knowing that his is a star act at the big vaudeville houses in the largest cities of both America and across the waters.

Anita Allen, of whom so much has been written in the large daily papers of this country, has an act that is beyond comparison with anything that has as yet been seen at the Star.

G. T. Phillips, the popular illustrated song singer of the Star, will sing "I Got the Time, I Got the Place," with beautiful and appropriate slides. Two new motion pictures will also be given at each performance. Admission 10c, children 5c.

MODERN REPUBLIC

MINISTER FROM CUBA PROPOSES GREATER HAVANA.

Says Mortality Lower Than Any Other Great City—Wants Improved Governments.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The American Civic association, which has for its object the cultivation of higher ideals of civic life and beauty in America, began a three-day session here today with delegates in attendance representing all the national and international organizations connected to civic effort.

The initial session was opened with "a Washington greeting" by Henry B. P. McFarland, who has been identified with public movements in this city. Interest centers in the reports presented from the organizations whose activities are akin to those of the American Civic association.

Wm. Dudley Foulke of Richmond, Ind., who recently was elected president of the National Municipal League at its convention at Buffalo, N. Y., told of the work of that organization looking toward the promotion of improved municipal governments. Mr. Edward W. Biddle of Carlisle, Pa., representing the General Federation of Women's clubs, outlined the movement in Cincinnati last June in the interests of civic betterment.

Town-Planning Commissioners. Charles Mulford Robinson of Rochester, N. Y., who was a delegate from America to the London town-planning conference last October, told of the action which Great Britain has taken toward the creation of town-planning commissions.

"The sociological aspect of Cuban municipalities," was discussed by Dr. F. Carrera Justiz, minister from Cuba to the United States.

"Since Cuba became a republic, through the generous aid of this powerful country, the progressive citizens of the island have undertaken the work of modernizing its local public life," said Dr. F. Carrera Justiz, the Cuban minister, in his address. "We entered into a new state of things with our independence and one of the first requisites was a new organic law of the municipalities."

"Our law contains a full declaration concerning the judicial entity of the municipalities and the Cuban municipal government is vested with all of the necessary powers in order to regulate all local conditions."

Plans Greater Havana. "The mayor and aldermen of each municipality are elected by direct vote, so that in Cuba the republican system of government does not exist only in the comparatively abstract field of the extension of the state and national powers, but is also extended to the municipalities.

"If we add to this the fact that the autonomy of the Cuban municipalities emanates from the constitution from the state itself it will be seen that we are placed in a legal situation which is eminently progressive."

"It is evident, therefore, that the Cuban municipalities are legally empowered to carry out any necessary work for their embellishment. We are seriously studying the matter of developing a 'Greater Havana' worthy of its splendid possibilities. Even now it is a great city, with more than three hundred thousand inhabitants and so clean that, according to the latest vital statistics, our average mortality has been lower than that of any other great city in the world."

CONTROL CANAL

ESSENTIAL TO COMMERCIAL INDEPENDENCE.

Report to New York Board of Trade Declared for Projected Intra-Coastal Canal.

New York, Dec. 15.—The projected intra-coastal canal through the Atlantic seaboard and gulf states, connecting the bays and rivers which indent the coast line from Boston to Galveston, will not only be navigable for clippers and battleships in time of war, but also will develop the commercial and manufacturing interests. Such was the gist of the report submitted by the committee on national rivers and harbors of the New York board of trade and transportation at the monthly meeting.

A resolution was adopted declaring that the absolute and sole control of the Panama canal by the United States is essential to its national and commercial independence. The board urges that the canal, therefore, be adequately fortified.

A MYSTERY

It Was Explained With a Happy Denouement

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I prefer the autumn for automobiling. The country is then beautiful, and I am comparatively free from the dust of other autos. In these rides I love to commune with nature and usually go alone.

One October I was riding through the beautiful hills of Vermont when evening came upon me in a timely settled region, and I encountered a breakdown at the same time. I couldn't, like Joshua, turn the sun back in his course, and I saw at a glance that I couldn't repair the break in my auto.
Fortunately near me was a house. It was a queer looking structure built of brick and hexagonal in form. Leaving my auto beside the road where it was stalled, with a light before and behind, I went to the house resolved if admitted to spend the night there.
There was not much encouragement of a welcome for the since it was now quite dark and not a light was to be seen at a single window.

On reaching the premises I went to the front door and beat on it with the old fashioned brass knocker. A man came to the door. Then I went around the house, looking for a possible entrance. I found one through a window the pane of which had been left unfastened. Entering, I struck a match and saw that I was in a house furnished in colonial style.
Not a bed or bureau could have been less than a hundred years old. It was evidently the home when occupied of refined and educated people.

Going upstairs, I found a bedroom that suited me, with a four post bedstead and a broad open fireplace. A wood box stood beside the latter, and I soon had half a dozen logs burning brightly. Then, returning to my auto, I took my lunch basket, which I always carried in case of necessity, containing both meat and drink, and returned. There were lamps in the house and dishes, but no eatables. I took of the dishes what few I needed, went upstairs, pulled a small table to the fire and ate my supper, washing it down with a pint of wine.

I had been riding in the wind all day and was very sleepy. Instead of getting into the bed, on which there was a quilt and pillowcases, I fell asleep in my chair. I don't know how long I slept, but when I awoke the fire gave out only the glow of coals. Remembering that I was alone in a deserted house, I instinctively looked about me to make sure that I was perfectly safe.
On a wooden partition separating the room from another hung an unframed print, the head and shoulders of a young girl, life size. There was something about the eyes that arrested my attention. By the imperfect light they seemed strange. In fact, they looked like human eyes inserted in a paper picture. I am not superstitious or nervous, but the uncanny effect startled me. Throwing some light wood on the fire, I started a blaze, but when it came and I looked again at the picture the eyes were more printed. I got up from my seat, went to them and, seeing that they were paper, threw off my outer garments, lay down on the bed and went to sleep.

The next morning I was awakened by hearing a sound as though something had been set down outside my door. Remembering the eyes on the picture, I was somewhat curious as to what was happening. Getting up, I went to the door, opened it, and there at my feet was a pitcher of hot water.

My mind went back at once to the fairly tales of my boyhood. I was surely in the house of a magician, and I hoped that the "princess" was there too. Performing my ablutions, I put on my clothes and, opening the door, went downstairs. The first room I struck was the dining room, and what was my astonishment to find the table set for breakfast, with but one plate.

"Hello, fairy!" I called jocularly—that is, I tried to call jocularly, but failed, and when the wall gave back no sound but that of my own voice I confess I felt a very uncanny sensation. And I suffered some sudden brain trouble?

I was rattled. The eyes I had seen the night before, the pitcher of hot water, the breakfast table set—with dishes only—had completely upset me.
I determined to explore the house and botted right into the kitchen. I found no one, but a fire was lighted in the stove, and on it coffee was spouting up in a percolator. I went into all the other rooms on the ground floor and, finding no one, mounted the stairs to explore the upper stories. There was no one in any room. In the garret I found a locked door and couldn't effect an entrance, but it seemed to me that it was a storeroom. I returned to the room I had slept in. My heart was beating like a kettle drum. I pool-poled and tried to laugh at the oddity of the situation, but it was no use.
I sat down in the chair in which I had slept the night before and tried to reassure myself that I was mentally sound. I don't remember how long I was in my room—perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes—when I heard a tap at the door and a sweet voice say:

"Breakfast is ready."

I made a dash for the door, opened it and looked—anywhere, everywhere.
Not a sign of life!

But the odor of coffee, fresh made toast and broiled meat reassured me.
I went down again into the dining room, and there on the breakfast table were breakfast, fried potatoes, eggs—in short, a fine breakfast. I looked into the kitchen; there was no one there.

I sat down to the table, poured out a cup of coffee, helped myself to the viands and ate my breakfast.

The first sip of coffee, the first mouthful of food, bracing me, as it did, made me feel more confident that I was not in a condition to be transferred to bedlam, and by the time I had finished my breakfast I felt sure there was some explanation of the mystery on other grounds than that I had lost my reason. "And yet," I argued, relaps-ing into doubt, "insane persons believe themselves of perfectly sound mind."

I arose from the table, went into a sitting room in the front of the house and looked out through a window.
There was my auto standing beside the road just as I had left it the night before. The morning was bright, and I would have liked to buy a plan for its recovery and a possible getting away, but would not do so on any account before having solved the mystery. I sat down in the sunshine, lit a cigar and began to plan—not the repairing of my auto, but a method of finding out whence came the attention I was receiving in this apparently unoccupied house.

I finally concluded that the only way to draw out the mysterious somebody who was ministering to my wants was to entrap him or her into a fancied security. I resolved to pretend to sleep. Taking up a book I found on a table, I began to read, nodding and stuttering up alternately till finally, as if overpowered by slumber, I began to breathe heavily and then to snore.

It wasn't long before I heard whis-perings in the hall without. Then after a dead silence between my partly closed eyelids I saw a face peering through the doorway, which was but half open. It was the face of a girl.
It was withdrawn, and the face of another girl appeared. Three of them in succession surveyed me with evident interest and satisfaction, to say nothing of merriment.

"Oh!" I exclaimed mentally. "Where's mischievous in the wind. Trust a girl for deviltry and three girls for three times as much of it as one. I have evidently fallen into the toils of a bevy of them, and they are having great fun at my expense."

I didn't bother myself as to how these girls came to be there. I contented myself with waiting and watching through my half closed eyes. A door behind me was opened, and presently I felt a tickling on the back of my neck. I knew at once that one of these girls was teasing me with a feather. I made a frantic grasp for what was intended for a bug, but snored on. The bug lighted on my cheek—another frantic clutch and another, my efforts to catch the insect becoming more and more ludicrous.

At last I heard another laughter.
It is a law of nature that the more successful we are the more venturesome we become. Women who are most timid in beginning to take risks eventually become the most reckless plungers. Being young and fond of adventure, I was delighted with the turn the affair had taken. The more venturesome the girls the sounder I slept, the louder I snored. Then a girl tiptoed into the room and when I moved scurried out. Another, emboldened by the success of the first, did the same thing. Then I heard a whispering, catching but a few words—"Dare you to kiss him."

"Well, now," I remarked to myself,
"this is getting interesting." And I snored loud enough to wake the dead.
Then one of the girls—wasn't she pretty, though!—stole into the room, every fiber under quick control, the spirit of daredevil in her eyes, advanced, retraced, advanced again. I never repted so quietly in my life, though my heart was beating like a triphammer.
Then she tiptoed around beside me, leaned over me, straightened up, bent lightly, lowered her face to mine and lightly touched my lips with hers.

There was a frightful shriek as I folded her tightly within my two arms and a whole chorus from those without. I raised kisses on her cheeks and on her lips. "Thanks for the night's lodging," I said, giving her a smack on her right cheek. "And this is for the hot water at my room, this for the breakfast." And so I expressed my gratitude for everything I had received and many things I hadn't received.

Well, the climax had come and passed.
Every one came forward, and the oldest girl gave me an explanation.
The house belonged to the father of one of them, who had inherited it from his great-grandfather and always kept it exactly as he had received it. In summer it was used by the family for a country residence. The night of my arrival the daughter of the owner had brought a party of her girl friends with provisions for spending a week end. They had found signs of some one within and finally ventured inside themselves, surveying me through the eyes of the picture which had been turned into peepholes for a former purpose. Then it had occurred to them to have their argument in mystifying me.

Some young men—and a chaperon, of course—were expected during the day, and I was invited to make one of the party. I accepted and had the time of my life. I have since been there often and am extravagantly fond of the place. There is good reason for this. I met my wife there, gave her my first kiss there, courted her there and married her in the very room in which I kissed her.

GOOSEBONEWEATHER SIGNS ARE PROVING

NATURE PROPHETS DISAGREE.

Channahon, Ill., Dec. 15.—The local nature prophets can't quite agree on what is coming off this winter in the way of weather. There is much conflicting evidence for believers in the goose bone, the ground hog, the wrinkled tomato, the thick corn husk and other signs supposed to give a correct forecast to consider that at a gathering of the prophets here no final forecast was risked.

One prophet had the courage to rise up and state that he had been in the habit of basing his prediction for the winter on what the weather was each Sept. 23, but that last year all signs failed, due, he thinks, to the disconcerting advent of Halley's comet then approaching the earth.
At the finish, he had a choice lot of unfulfilled forecasts on hand.

Following this object confession of prophecies that failed, another member of the convention announced that he planned his faith to the appearance of tomatoes. Each autumn he digs up a tomato vine and hangs it in the cellar. After giving the tomatoes on the vine two weeks in which to line up as weather prophets, he examines them. If they are soft and wrinkled the winter will be mild. This year's test found them in that condition.

The consensus of opinion among those who have faith in worms as weather prophets is that the winter will be mild because worms are to be seen everywhere, and if it was to be a cold winter the worms would be in their steamheated flats or some other comfortable home by this time.

Some new work in crude meteorology was introduced at the convention by making the groundhog do a semi-annual instead of an annual stunt. Heretofore his appearance on Feb. 2 has been the only time in the year when the little animal had the center of the stage, but they said at this meeting the little groundhog its as reliable in the fall as he is in February.

On Candlemas day he is supposed to come out at noon, look for his shadow and go back. If he can see it, for six weeks annex to his winter's nap. In the fall what he thinks about prospects for the winter are based on the approaches of his home.
Every groundhog with any pretension to class has two entrances to his domicile. One of these faces the north and the other the south. As signs are observed he closes one entrance, and this year, according to those who had wandered about the woods along the Des Plaines river, the northern entrance was closed, an indication that the groundhog expects a cold winter.

To offset this, another delegate reported seeing a turtle and two black snakes wandering about as if they thought it was May instead of November. This he insisted, was a sure sign that the winter is to be mild.

Squirrels are depended upon by many for a tip on the winter. This year the squirrels have laid in a very small supply of nuts for the winter. According to those who back the squirrel is an authority, this means that the ground is to be bare and the weather mild.

TIZ Cured Her Quick.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, swollen feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, calluses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs.
Crockett, of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes." No matter what ails your feet or what under the heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ.
It's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all of the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used.
Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ

PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is in the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhi-lating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips." Another from Newark, N. J.
"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

The moss on the trees was reported by another delegate to show conclusively that a hard winter is con-ing. "Go out in the woods," said the moss man, "and look at the trees. On the north side of them you will find a heavy growth of moss. That's nature's protection for the trees and a sure sign of a hard winter."

Among all the varying signs the goosebone is still the most credited one. When the breast bone of a young goose shows black spots it is conceded that the winter is to be se-made a definite forecast on the goose of these breastbones were exhibited, one of them discolored with dark spots while the other was clear.

TAKE CARE!

Remember that when your kidneys are affected, your life is in danger.
M. Mayer, Rochester, N. Y., says:

lar and infrequent. I started using Foley Kidney Pills. Each dose seemed to put new life and strength

Christmas North and South.
Washington celebrates Christmas in the northern style, a la New England—that is to say, by simply closing the stores and keeping quiet—but Alexandria, Va., celebrates in good old southern style, with rockets, roman candles, firecrackers, torpedoes, noise and general rejoicing hilarity.

Northern people often wonder why it is that the southerners celebrate Christmas like the Fourth of July and the latter holiday like Christmas, but the reason is not far to seek. The southern Christmas is the Christmas of old Merrie England, Germany and France before the reformation. According to the view of all good orthodox Christians of that period, the birth of Christ was an event such as to cause delight and general rejoicing among men, and consequently they celebrated the Lord's birthday with the proper demonstrations of rejoicing. The Puritans were inclined to frown down religion of this sort, so that when America was settled by Cavalier and Puritan each celebrated the day in his own way.—Washington Post.

Christmas Candle and Tree.
The old custom of the lighting of the Christmas candle, which is still observed by the Irish peasantry, chiefly at Candlemas or Old Christmas day, has become quite obsolete in England. A relic of the observance in England is, however, preserved.
An old stone socket carved with a lamb is shown in the buttery of St.
John's college, Oxford, which was used in former days for holding the Christmas candle. The Christmas tree was practically unknown in England a little more than half a century ago. It was introduced into this country from Germany, where the Christmas tree has been a popular feature of Christmas eve festivities for centuries, by the prince consort shortly after his marriage.—Westminster Gazette.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

In a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped labora-

First Christmas Observance.

Christmas gets its name from the mass celebrated in the early days of the Christian church in honor of the birth of Christ, its first solemnization having been ordered by Pope Tele-phorus. This was in or before the year 138, for in that year Pope Tele-phorus died.

At first Christmas was what is known as a movable feast, just as Easter is now, and owing to misunderstandings was celebrated as late as April or May. In the fourth century an ecclesiastical investigation was ordered, and upon the authority of the tables of the censors in the Roman archives Dec. 25 was agreed upon as the dates of the Saviour's nativity. Tradition fixed the hour of birth at about midnight, and this led to the celebration of a midnight mass in all the churches, a second at dawn and a third in the later morning.

Christmas On a Canal Boat.

"How are we going to spend Christmas?" exclaimed the good natured Mrs. Captain Boggs, seemingly a bit surprised at the question, for canal-boat folks are sensitive of any criticism aimed in their direction.

"Why we're going to spend the day just like other folks. Some think because we live on canalboats we don't have any comforts and eat like savages. My, but I'd heap sight rather live down here than in a flat like my niece's. She's got six rooms, and they don't begin to be as big as mine.

"If they think there ain't room just look here," and Mrs. Boggs displayed the secrets of a suit of rooms the ingenuity of arrangement rivaling the den of New York bachelor girl. Out of the main cabin, which served as living and dining room combined, two alcoves jutted, besides an infinitesimal corner dubbed the kitchen, but which was even tinier than the modern apartment house kitchenette.

While under ordinary circumstances the kitchen was part of the cabin proper, two doors at right angles to each other could be drawn out, which, meeting, formed a room by itself. A shiny coal stove or range quite filled the compartment, leaving just room before it in which to work, while above it every inch of wall space was utilized with pots and kettles and kitchen utensils of every sort.

A low cupboard opening into the hold contained more articles of kitchen use, as well as vegetables and canned goods. Bunks were displayed in the two alcoves, which were in open view of the cabin. But from the recesses of the boat Mrs. Boggs pulled out a sliding door, which completely divided the space into two rooms, and when curtains were drawn into the cabin the occupants enjoyed all the privacy desired.

A big divan could be opened up at night into a roomy double bed, and another bunk, "just under the ceaves," was sufficiently large to tuck two small youngsters away. Chests of drawers built in, wardrobes and cupboards in out of the way places supplied room for bedding, clothing and the boots and shoes of a family of children.

One of the biggest surprises in the boat, one which conveyed a hint that might be applied in small houses where room is at a premium, was the preserved fruit lockers.

"We all do up our own fruit," went on Mrs. Boggs. "You see, while we go up the canal we are in the country most of the time, and it is much cheaper to put up our own fruit than buy it in winter, and this is where we store it."

Going to the stairs up the companionway, she pulled out tiny drawers. Small knobs jutted out from the face of each step with which to open the drawers, while within there was quite room enough to allow pint fruit jars to stand upright.

A cold storage room was tucked away in the hold, into which a small door about two feet in length opened.

The dining table was a folding affair which turned up against the wall of the cabin when not in use. When some surprise was expressed at the presence of a sewing machine in the room, Mrs. Boggs said: "Oh, that's nothing! Many of the boats have organs as well, and there is one fitted up with a porcelain bathtub. So, you see, we have some of the luxuries of city houses and plenty of good air and sunshine. A concert is to be given on one of the boats here New Year's eve, and if you should like to come down you'd be glad to have you and show you a bit of canal boat hospitality."

A Simple Safeguard for Mothers.
Mrs. D. Glikson, 326 Ingles ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat and after using one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely free from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no substitutes. Glibert's drug store."

ETIQUETTE OF GIFT GIVING.

Suggestions on Bestowing and Receiving Christmas Presents.

There is an etiquette governing the giving and receiving of presents, as there is about most things, because there is always a best way to do everything, says the Ladies' Home Journal. If we penetrate below the surface of the little courteous conventions we shall find that consideration for the feelings of others underlies all. Do not try to make your gift look as though it cost more than you paid for it. Aside from the paltry spirit of such giving, it is a delusion and a snare, for next year your offering must seem to be as fine as the one of this season or you may appear to have been less anxious to please your friend.

Take the time to write a few words of loving or cordial greeting on the cards that accompany your gifts. Without that evidence of individual personal thought the offering of even the finest present appears somewhat graceless and perfunctory. A message on a card is better than a note because more informal, and one should not seem to make much of a gift. Having your presents delightfully wrapped is not less a matter of courtesy. Let their outward appearance commend them. Leave them or send them to their destination the day before Christmas unless you can insure their reception early in the day. A tardy gift appears like an afterthought.

Appropriate Christmas Presents.

For your servant girl—A sealskin cloak.

For your minister—A Bible.
For your son—A position downtown with some one who will make him earn his salt.

For your daughter—Some clothes to help her capture some unsuspecting man.

For some unsuspecting but otherwise worthy young man—The afore-said daughter.—Yellow Book.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home and Serves You Best

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50. Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (city cerule worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in salicylic acid and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula. The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully. A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has a box of it will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A Merry Christmas Jest.

An old chronicler contains the following quaintly worded anecdote:

"There was some time an old knight who, being disposed to make himself merry in a Christmas time, sent for many of his tenants and poor neighbors with their wives to dinner, when having made meat to be set on the table would suffer no man to drink till he that was master over his wife should sing a carol; great necessity there was who should be the musician. Yet with much ado, looking one upon another, after a dry hemme or two, a dreaming companion drew out as much as he dare toward an old fashioned ditty. When having made an end, to the great comfort of the beholders, at last it came to the women's table, when likewise commandment was given that there should no drink be touched till she that was master over her husband had sung a Christmas carol; whereupon they fell all to such a singing that there was never heard such a cattering piece of music. Whereat the knight laughed heartily, that it did him half as much good as a corner of his Christmas pie."

GENEROUS AMERICA

RED CROSS RELIEF OPERATIONS WORLD WIDE IN 1910.

Earthquake, Fire, Flood, Explosion, Hurricane, War and Massacre Called for Aid.

Six big disasters will occur in the United States in 1911. This is not the prediction of an astrologer but of the American Red Cross, the organization which conducts a larger work of relief among people stricken by great calamities than any other agency in the world. Experience has led the Red Cross to expect an average of five or six serious disasters in this country every year. It does not know where or when they will occur, or whether they will be United States people suffer from the results of great calamities. But the Red Cross does not confine itself to relief operations in this country. Its caused by storm, or fire, or flood, or earthquake, or explosion. But it is sure that they will happen, just as one may be sure that 15 persons of every thousand now living will die in the next 12 months.

World wide service to humanity was shown in reports presented at the recent Red Cross in Washington. This organization, of which President Taft is the president, is recognized by the federal government as the official channel for the conduct of relief work wherever in the field is the world.

Experience proves not only that an average of five or six disasters, severe enough to call for Red Cross help, may be expected to occur every year in the United States, but that the demands from other countries may be expected to be equally numerous. Some idea of the character and variety of these demands may be gained from the disasters with which the Red Cross dealt in the last twelve months. These included, in the United States, one hurricane, one mine fire, two mine explosions and forest fires in Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Minnesota; in foreign countries, relief of starving captured soldiers in Nicaragua, floods in Mexico, France, Serbia and Japan, the Armenian massacres and the earthquake in Costa Rica.

In the disasters above mentioned which occurred in the United States 536 lives were lost, while, approximately, 7,600 persons required im-

Other relief funds expended in this country in conjunction with those of the Red Cross and according to its plans and methods amounted to $218,000, making the grand total relief expenditures of the year under Red Cross leadership $480,500.

Dressing the Christmas Tree.

The Christmas tree is as popular with the youngsters as ever. No party is quite complete without it. It is no use hanging a few presents on a few bare branches. The charm of the thing does not so much lie in the gifts as in the surrounding circumstance. The proper way to go about dressing a Christmas tree is as follows: Having got your tree in position, cover with imitation snowflake, which may be achieved with white wadding fluffed and pulled out with the fingers till it looks light and feathery. The snowflakes are tied on to the tree with black cotton. Sprinkle the wadding with Epsom salts. When dressing distribute the ornaments thoroughly. Place light articles at the top and heavy and bulky ones on the lower branches and at the base of the tree. If the tree is to be lit up—and remember you cannot be too careful in the management of a snow covered tree which is lighted up for the cotton wood is extremely inflammable—the tiny wax tapers and candles must be placed in the candle sticks and holders. These must stand perfectly upright if they are to be a success. The topmost figure should have a good effect.

Some women are beautiful because of their clothes, and some in spite of them.

A man always has a lot on hand he never attends to.

Christmas in a Scotch City.

Glasgow, the commercial metropolis of Scotland, with its well nigh million inhabitants, can be chosen as an interesting illustration of the manner in which one-fourth of the people of the country spend the holidays. Many days before the store fronts on Argyle street—a thoroughfare as busy as any in the land—are gayly and profusely decorated with holly and evergreens. Above nearly every entrance signs of welcome and the compliments of the season are exhibited in holly leaves. On Christmas eve the stores keep open late. Either side of the thoroughfare is a mass of blazing, cheerful light, and there is a moving mass of humanity between. But when the stores close they close until boxing day. All the working people now get their Christmas holiday.

On Christmas forenoon the lord provost or mayor presides at the annual meeting and breakfast given by the directors at the royal infirmary. His lordship makes a speech, after which there is a distribution of good things to all the patients in the large institution. Then he visits sundry other institutions for the care of the sick and poor, where there are Christmas trees and feasting. By the way, Christmas day is one of the lord provost's busiest days. At 2 o'clock, according to annual custom for years past, he presides at the annual dinner given to from 5,000 to 6,000 poor men, women and children in the city hall, Albion street. His lordship and the city magistrates occupy the stage and take dinner with the poor. During the repast, which consists of soup, beef, an entire, plum pudding, tea or coffee and fruit, stirring Scotch airs are played on the big organ by the city organist. At the close his lordship makes a speech, which is reported verbatim in the newspapers. It is usually a masterly production.

Outwardly the aspect of the city resembles that of Sunday. Nevertheless thousands of people are moving about. The myriad of riveters in the miles of shipbuilding yards along the Clyde have come to the city with their wives and families and are attending the matinees or evening pantomime performances that have already been running. These pantomimes are a feature of city life in Scotland during the winter. Usually three open at the big theaters in Glasgow Christmas eve. They are rehearsed for weeks before. The playwright usually chooses as his theme a fairy tale. "Jack the Giant Killer," "All Baba and the Forty Thieves" and "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" have been favorite themes. As a rule, the playwright retains enough of the tale so that the young folks can recognize the characters, but taken altogether the production becomes really a dramatic burlesque of local life and character, interesting, entertaining and even elevating to old and young. Actors and actresses of renown take the leading parts, while there are dazzling costumes, magnificent scenery and a gorgeous ballet thrown in. No wonder it is that often until the middle of spring the pantomimes enjoy a continuous run. Latterly they become in a sense classics. For their libretti undergo weekly improvement at the suggestion of local wits noted for the pungency of their sayings and the fund of dry Scotch humor they possess. It is no exaggeration to say that these pantomimes are visited by some persons each night all the season through and by others fully a score of times.

Then there is the usual exodus of young men to the country at Christmas. It is a common saying among Scotchmen that all roads lead to London. This is changed to Glasgow in some cases. There is scarcely a family of note in the Highlands that has not a son at the universities of Glasgow or Edinburgh; studying for the professions of law, medicine, the pulpit, the army or the home or foreign civil service. With what hope and pride the advent of the young student is looked for at the little railroad station up in the mountains on Christmas eve or morning! If he lives on an estate the next day he is given a side by his rustic countrymen in their annual Christmas day football match. The game is usually a stoutly contested one, unimpeded and refereed by the laird and heads of the estate. At the corner of the field is placed a cask of good Scotch ale, from which the players regale themselves at half time. Then the game resumes, and the second half is fast and furious. Around the ropes are the young women of the estate looking on with pleasure and discussing their choices in the dance list of the evening.—Brooklyn Eagle.

AGE NOT HARSHER TO WORKER

Treatment of Old Employees Has Improved With Years.

Perhaps employees are somewhat more consciously aware now than formerly of the economies that lie in "taking on" only young men, but these are so obvious that they must always have been recognized, and it is not today or yesterday that the phrase "business is business," used with the implication that business is not charity, was invented. Certainly the age is not harsher or crueler than other ages were; to the knowledge of all—as distinguished from the suppositions of many—it is gentler, more considerate and wiser.

The fact is that the old man out of a job is not burdened by his years alone. For one thing, it has not the best of recommendations that his experience and his skill did not cause his previous employer to retain him. Nobody maintains that competent men are discharged because of gray hair. Again, the elderly man usually will not, and because of his responsibilities cannot, accept a beginner's place and wage, and no others are likely to be open. Again, he is some times unable, and more often unwilling to learn new ways. His chief obstacle, however, is the certainty that his term of service will be short, as compared with that of a young man. Not many employers nowadays fail to recognize some sort of degree of obligation to take care of faithful employees after their working days are over, and it is this sense of responsibility, so new and so commendable, that makes the old man's search for a salaried position perhaps a little longer than it used to be.—New York Times.

Plum Puddings for Abroad.

If we are to believe the postoffice there are over a million plum puddings sent abroad every year. To Australia, Canada, the United States and South Africa hundreds are sent by private individuals to their friends, while those sent to India are numbered by the thousands. Besides, there are several large firms who make a specialty of producing plum puddings for abroad, one firm alone dispatching considerably over 1,000 pounds' worth of puddings yearly to distant countries. When we remember that when sent to some remote part of the globe the carriage of a single pudding will often cost as much as 30s. or 2 pounds, it will be evident that, apart from the ingredients, these puddings become expensive. Not too expensive, perhaps, if we could but see the joy with which the recipient hands to his friends or family morsels of the toothsome delicacy sent "from home by those at home."

A Christmas Game.

A Yuletide version of the donkey party is played thus: On a sheet sketch or paste a design of a Christmas tree. Have each branch of the tree terminate in a circle containing a number, using the numbers from one to ten or one to 25, according to the size of the tree. Each person playing is blindfolded in turn and is given a rosette with which he must "decorate the tree." Each person aims to pin his or her rosette on or near to the highest number of the tree. Each competitor has three trials, the three numbers to which he pins nearest being written down to his credit by the hostess, who keeps tally. The one whose three numbers added together give the largest sum total wins the first prize.

WHAT ABOUT BRAIN FOOD?

This Question Came Up in the Recent Trial for Libel.

A "Weekly" printed some criticisms of the claims made for our foods. It evidently did not fancy our reply printed in various newspapers, and brought suit for libel. At the trial some interesting facts came out.

Some of the chemical and medical experts differed widely.

The following facts, however, were quite clearly established:

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash), 2.91 per cent of the total, 5.33 of all Mineral Salts.

This is over one-half.

Beannis, another authority, shows "Phosphoric Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from a total of 101.07.

Considerable more than one-half of Phosphoric of Potash.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows: Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash), is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetable fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fog because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which nature demands for brain-building.

In the trial a sneer was uttered because Mr. Post announced that he had made years of research in this country and some clinics of Europe, regarding the effect of the mind on digestion of food.

But we must be patient with those who sneer at facts they know nothing about.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment.

A peaceful and evenly poised mind is necessary to good digestion.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, &c., &c., directly interfere with or stops the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interferes with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

This trial has demonstrated:

That Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

That Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

A Year Ago We Inaugurated the Sale of Whiskies, Brandies, Etc.

At Wholesale Prices in Retail Quantities. In the Wholesale District in a Wholesale Store

Friends discouraged us in our new venture, simply because we were not on a retail street, that we had no bar, no free lunches, no benches or chairs to lounge on, and no show windows to display our goods. READ THE "CAUSE AND EFFECT" below:

CAUSE

We refuted the idea, claiming that the public were willing to walk a half block out of their way, were willing to dispense with the aforesaid attractions, if they can be convinced that they can buy almost two bottles of whiskey (quality considered) for the price they are paying for one, in other words, if we save them 33 1/3 to 50 per cent., and on some goods even more.

EFFECT

We have proved the correctness of our claim, we have built up a business beyond our most sanguine expectations, not alone in Paducah but in all the neighboring counties as well as in the near by Illinois towns. The result of our low prices and superior goods. We respectfully ask a trial purchase from YOU. If goods are not as represented your money will be cheerfully refunded.

THE MISTLETOE DOUGH.

Thoughts of Which It Has Long Been Emblematic.

The mistletoe boughs and sprigs bring again to mind the superstitions regarding this curious parasite. For many generations after the last Druid was due the mistletoe had its votaries. The plant had almost every medicinal property, according to early physicians. It was believed to be a remedy for the physical, mental and sentimental. In pagan days it was dedicated to Owen, the Celtic Venus, and through he ages the plant and the tender passion were rather intimately intertwined. Kissing beneath it began so far back in history that no one has ever attempted to trace the custom to its youth.

The Druids, in common with almost all primitive men, had a deep reverence for the idea of the trinity—the number three. The white berries of the mistletoe are, often found in groups of three, and this circumstance as well as the fact that the berries ripen at the sacred season, although they flower with apple blossoms and wild roses, must have impressed them. At all events, the white boughs were gathered near the end of the year and played an important part in the ceremonies of December.

The Druids did not regard all mistletoe with reverence, or at least they did not gather it in their ceremonies from any tree except the oak, which was their sacred tree. Now the mistletoe almost never grows on oak trees. In England, the continent of Europe and in America the pretty parasitic growth, the Viscum album of the botanists, is found growing on apple trees, willows, larches, sycamores, poplars, elms and many other trees, but very rarely on oak trees.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off.

The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the tank. It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unscrewed for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

His Way of Pudding It.

"Tommy, that is the last holding of Christmas pudding I shall give you."

So spoke Tommy's mother. Tommy grunted.
"Once upon a time, Tommy," continued his mother, "there was a little boy who kept on eating plum pudding till he burst! He died, Tommy, from eating too much pudding."

Tommy finished his helping.
"Ain't such a thing as too much Christmas pudding?" he murmured thoughtfully.

"Well, then," said his mother, "why did the little boy burst?"
"Not enuff boy!" remarked Tommy and pushed his plate over again.
